Luncheon Club provides a hub for older residents in Hackney

01 September 2009

With one of the largest proportion of elderly residents in London, Hackney Homes supports a number of local organisations to tailor services to the elderly.

One such organisation is the Nightingale Luncheon Club in Hackney which provides local people with freshly cooked meals daily and an opportunity to mingle with friends.

Running for over seven years, the Luncheon Club also arranges outings for the members to the seaside and theatre trips as well as social events such as the Easter Bonnet parade, Halloween party and Christmas dinner.

Noreen Kearney, a local resident manages the day to day running of the Luncheon Club. She said: "We cater for about 20 people each day and serve up hearty and fresh meals. Every day is something different and we do our best to make sure we look after people."

Deputy Mayor Karen Alcock who recently visited the Luncheon Club said: "The health and wellbeing of residents is a key priority. That is why we continue to support the hard work and commitment that is being done by the Luncheon Club to cater for the residents of Nightingale Estate".

The Nightingale Luncheon Club is located at Olympus Square in the Nightingale Estate and is housed in a colourful bright blue building. Lunch is served at midday from Monday to Friday.
